

Potato Working Group Chair: Mike Wilson

The potato working group chair is Mike Wilson: a seed potato grower from Aberdeenshire. As well as growing seed potatoes, Mike also supplies Morrisons with finished beef cattle, has diversified into renewable energy projects with wind turbines and a biomass boiler, as well as managing an agri-environmental scheme. He is looking forward to engaging with potato producing members right across the country and is keen to be a presence at regional potato meetings. For Mike, the big issue at the moment is the trade impact of Brexit, and it is vital that NFUS lobbies for the interests of the potato sector at this critical time. The result of the AHDB potato levy vote will also result in change, and it is important that NFUS provides a voice for its potato growing members to make the case to replicate the functions of AHDB they value the most.
